- The Memorial made by the Firm of J. G. Boyd & Son, Monumental Sculptors, Perth Road, Dundee.
- Moved from the old Lodge premises in Rankine's Court to Artillery Lane in February 1949
- The Contractor was Andy Couttie who was self employed and had a yard in Rosefield Street, he used a flat bed Albion Lorry.
- Also involved was Robert C. Lawson, (life member of Lodge Ancient No. 49) Monumental Sculptor and who was with George Carnegie & Sons. (Geo Carnegie was Baillie Carnegie of Dundee Town Council).
- The Labourer was Robert Reid, Life Member of Lodge Thistle Operative No. 158.
- The apprentice was Harry Robertson of Lodge Operative No. 47.
- There is an envelope behind the slab with names on it.
- It was a cold day when it was shifted, there were no floors in the building and battens had to be put down when the memorial was moved.
- Story of the moving of the monuments was related by Harry Robertson of Lodge Operative No. 47.
